President's Message

Randolph Maphis

In the last President's Message we took a long look at the weather and how the terrible hurricanes had impacted the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts. While the affected areas still have not returned to anything close to normal, the weather has dealt camellia growers a really positive hand to play this past winter.

I believe that the President's Message should be about growing camellias. So that is what will be discussed in this message.

This past winter was the mildest winter we have ever had in my 72 years upon God's green earth. Generally here in South Georgia and North Florida we begin the blooming season on a very positive note. Flowers are huge and blooms are perfect. Then about the first week of January old Mother Nature throws us a real curve ball. In baseball, a curve ball looks really great to the hitter until it takes an unexpected dip in its line of flight. The batter, not knowing swings over the ball because it curved down away from where he thought it was going to be and makes an out.

That is what happens here in Tallahassee about the first full moon in January. We generally get a hard freeze. A hard freeze deals a real curve ball to camellia blooms. After the temperatures dip to about 25 degrees, blooms are never the same. All the blooms (generally gibbed ones) that are showing color take a hit. They may open, but they never reach their full potential. The tight buds that remain on the plant never seem to open and be as magnificent as they should be. In Tallahassee we have had to cancel several shows after a really hard freeze. The hard freezes we have is the main reason that there are 5 greenhouses in Tallahassee and one in Quitman, Georgia. We like to see great camellia blooms.

This past very mild winter was the best blooming season that we have ever had. I have talked with growers in Texas, Mississippi, and up the Atlantic Coast to North Carolina. They all say that the camellia blooms this past season were the best they have ever seen. They also say that the blooming season was longer with more great flowers later in the blooming year too. I think I can state that camellias do not like freezing weather.

Howard Rhodes and I sprayed fungicide, insecticide, miticide, and oil this past week. It was on the first day of May that I observed two really beautiful ungibbed blooms in Howard's greenhouses. There were perfect blooms of 'Larry Piet' and 'Susie O'Neill.' I know, they both bloom late, but the first week of May?

I have also made several other observations about cold weather and camellias and how they fair after cold weather. It appears that when you graft scions that have not been through 25 degree temperatures the take rate is drastically increased. In the past I have observed that scions and root stocks grown in a greenhouse start growing sooner and the take rate is very high. This past grafting season without any nights below 32 degrees the graft take rate is about 99%. Jim Smelley, Howard Rhodes, Dick Hooton, Jerry Selph, Mark Crawford, and Dr. J. D. Thomerson all say that this is the best grafting season that they have ever seen. We all grafted outside, some in raised beds, some just in the ground. I really believe temperature is a real factor in grafting success.

We also made another observation this grafting season. At the Maphis homestead we grafted on 14 root stocks of different varieties. Eight of the varieties are part of the virus study being conducted by Dr. Simon Scott of Clemson University. By the way, his program at the annual ACCS Convention is going to increase our knowledge about camellia viruses. We grafted several unvirused cultivars on varieties with known viruses to see how the different viruses affect the blooms.

Now, back to the original observation. We noticed that each root stock of a different cultivar took and started growing at a different time. Of the six different root stocks the 'Kumugai Nagoya' took and grew first.

The grafts on 'Kumugai' are all larger than the grafts on 'Seafoam,' 'Hongluzhen,' 'Silver Chalice,' 'Gwenneth Morey,' and the sasanqua 'Pink Parasol.' Of course the sasanqua 'Pink Parasol' grew last because sasanquas break dormancy about a month later than japonicas and Retics. Now you are asking yourself, if Randolph always grafts almost exclusively on 'Kumugai,' why is he grafting on regular japonicas? The reason is, last year I grafted over 450 grafts on 'Kumugai,' and used up all my root stock. Mark Crawford gave me plants he was going to throw away because they just were not selling at his nursery so I would have something to graft the new John Wang and Pat Johnson varieties on. Sometimes you just do what you got to do.

Last month we held the annual spring board meeting in Columbia South Carolina to discuss the upcoming ACCS Convention. The venue and the hospitality was superb. The convention particulars should be available any day now. The programs for the convention will be outstanding. Plan to be there because you don't want to miss this one.
